2005 MARKET PERFORMANCE

The Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE) continued to grow in 2005 with the PSE composite index, the stock market's main index barometer, rising by 14.99% from 2004. The market remained resilient amidst economic and political turmoil such as the delays in the implementation of the reformed value-added tax law (RVAT), political controversies that hounded the Presidency, and the upsurge in crude oil prices. It managed to rally behind the positive economic developments such as the government's improving fiscal condition, the OFW-strengthened peso, a continuously expanding economy, and the slowing down of inflation by year's end.

The rise in the PSE Composite Index ranked second-best in Southeast Asia and fourth among selected Asian exchanges. The Jakarta Composite Index was the only index in the ASEAN region that outperformed the local stock market, posting only a slightly higher growth rate of 16.24%. The Philippine index outperformed the stock indices of Singapore, Thailand, Taiwan and Hong Kong, which grew by 13.61%, 6.83%, 6.66% and 4.54%, respectively.

At the start of the year, the market was poised to capitalize on previous year's gains. The government reported early in the year that the country's gross domestic product grew by 6.1% in 2004. Then, the Financial Action Task Force removed the Philippines from a derogatory list of countries considered "uncooperative" in mounting a global fight to stop the flow of money coming to or from international crime syndicates and terrorists. Another development that was well-received by the market was the retention of the Philippines in California Public Employees' Retirement System's (CalPERS) list of possible investment locations.

Market sentiments were also largely influenced by the country's fiscal condition. The higher than target government tax collections and the passage of government revenue-generating legislation such as the amended sin tax, lateral attrition laws, and the RVAT, provided confidence to investors and international credit rating agencies of government's commitment to keep its fiscal program on track.

However, the local market's ascent was slowed down by political problems that beset the Arroyo administration. The market was dragged down by accusations that the President allegedly cheated in the 2004 presidential elections and that the "First Family" was allegedly involved in illegal gambling. Investor confidence was restored when the political climate eventually stabilized after the President's positive State of the Nation Address and the unsuccessful impeachment bid against in the House of Representative against the President.

The uncertainties brought about by the delays in the implementation of the RVAT also tolled heavily on the market. Further pulling the market back was the decision of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) to conduct a series of interest hikes to stave off the accelerating inflation brought about mainly by rising world oil prices.

In the third quarter of 2005, the Supreme Court decided to uphold the legality of the RVAT Law. This provided the significant headway for government's efforts to solve the country's bloated budget deficit. Inflation eventually slowed down and the local currency closed out the year strong at P53.09 against the greenback behind the surge in OFW remittances.

The PSE Composite Index ended a year of political and economic highs and lows on an upbeat note to finish 273.21 points higher at 2,096.04 points from last year's 1,822.83.

Stock market gains were apparent across industries as four out of the five sectoral indices enjoyed double-digit hikes in 2005. The oil index stood grew by 57.47%, followed by the property index, commercial-industrial index, and the banking and financial sectors index which rose by 22.87%, 16.95% and 13.96%, respectively. Only the mining index ended the year at a lower level declining by 12.57% from last year's close.

The stock market was also more active in 2005. Total value turnover increased by 86% to P383.52 billion from P206.56 billion the previous year. Net foreign transactions also grew to P23.53 billion, 32% more than the P17.84 billion tallied in 2004.

Meanwhile, total market capitalization climbed up by 25% to P5.95 trillion from its previous level of P4.77 trillion. Two successful initial public offerings (IPOs) were also conducted. SM Investment Corporation (SM) marked its place in the annals of local capital market history when it raised P26.3-billion in equity proceeds. This was considered as the largest in the Philippines and the fifth biggest in Asia at the time of the offering. Manila Water Company, Inc., on the other hand, raised P3.6 billion during its initial public offering.

NOTES

The following are the revisions made in the 2005 edition of the PSE Fact Book:

Pages 11-14

PSEi and sector indices. Some index values were revised as a result of the historical index review conducted by the Research Department.

Pages 16-20

Total Volume and Value Traded per sector, Volume and Value of Block Sales and Odd Lot Transactions per sector. Trading volume and value per sector were revised to reflect correct daily sector classification of each issue.

The former Banks and Financial Services subsectors under the Commercial and Industrial (C-I) sector were reclassified under the Banks & Financial Services (B&FS) sector introduced on 15 November 1996. Likewise, the former Real Estate subsector under the C-I sector was reclassified into the Property sector introduced on 1 October 1994. To maintain data continuity in the sector tables, trading activity prior to reclassification was linked to trading activity under the current sector classification. This had an effect on the volume and value figures for the C-I and B&FS sectors from 1994 to 1996 and for the Property sector for 1994.

Page 22

Total Market Capitalization. Total market capitalization figures were revised to reflect correct last trade prices of some stocks. End-of-year exchange rates from the BSP were used to convert the values to US Dollars.

Page 23

Market Capitalization by sector. Market capitalization by sector was revised to reflect correct industry classification of preferred shares and warrants.

In keeping with the treatment of sector reclassifications mentioned above, the yearend market capitalization figures for the Banks & Financial Services and Commercial and Industrial sectors from 1994 to 1995 were revised.

Pages 59-60

Top 50 price Gainers and Losers. Price changes were computed using the last trade price (LTP) at yearend 2005 versus the LTP at yearend 2004 for each stock. For newly listed issues, the closing price on the date the issue was first traded was used as the previous LTP. Delisted issues as of yearend 2005 were excluded from the list.

Page 65

Number of Listed Companies and Issues. The number of companies and issues were reclassified to peso-denominated equities, foreign exchange-denominated equities, and bonds. The number of companies tally is now defined over those companies whose shares are being traded in the Exchange. As a result, GTHP, ABSP, and JFCW were no longer included in the number of listed companies.

New tables included in the 2005 PSE Fact Book:

Top 50 Companies by Volume Turnover Ratio

Volume turnover ratio is computed by dividing the total volume turnover by the average number of outstanding shares.

Volume of trades is adjusted for corporate actions for trades prior to ex-date or effective date.

Top 50 Companies by Trading Frequency (Regular Market)

Trading frequency shows stock activity in terms of number of individual trades executed.

Top 50 Companies by Foreign Activity

Foreign activity is computed as the sum of foreign buying and selling divided by the buying and selling sides of the total value turnover.

Top 50 Stocks by Net Foreign Buying (Total Value Traded)

Top 50 Stocks by Net Foreign Selling (Total Value Traded)

Top 50 Brokers Trading Frequency (Buying and Selling)

Trading frequency shows stock activity in terms of number of individual trades executed.

Top 50 Brokers by Total Value Traded (Buying and Selling)

Actual of volume of trades are shown in the table.

*If the unit of analysis is company-level, data for companies with "A" and "B" shares are combined.
